

CN executive vice-president, sales and marketing leaving CN

(CN issued the following on November 6, 2009.)

MONTREAL — CN today announced that James M. Foote, CN executive vice-president, Sales and Marketing has decided to leave the Company after 14 years at CN.

E. Hunter Harrison, president and chief executive officer, said: "Jim has been a key player at CN since the Company's privatization. Since 2000, Jim has been responsible for the strategic direction and leadership of the Company's Sales and Marketing group and made tremendous contributions to CN over the years."

"I thank Jim for his valuable contributions and dedication, and wish him all the best."

Jean-Jacques Ruest, CN senior vice-president, Marketing and Stan Jablonski, CN senior vice-president, Sales, as well as the Sales and Marketing organization as a whole, will report directly to the CEO, Hunter Harrison until year-end, following which they will report to incoming CEO, Claude Mongeau.